THE LEGISLATURE.

The Thirty-Second annual session of the Wisconsin Legislature convened at Madison to-day at twelve o'clock. The Republicans did themselves credit by electing the Hon. D. M. Kelly, of Green Bay, Speaker of the Assembly. Mr. Kelly is especially fitted for that important position. He has a commanding presence, is well versed in parliamentary law and in the rules governing the Assembly, has a well-keyed voice, and is a lawyer of considerable prominence. John E. Eldred, of Milwaukee, who would rather see Matt. Carpenter go to the Senate than own the best farm in the West, was elected Chief Clerk, and M Knight, of Pepin, Sergeant-at-Arms. The minor offices have not yet been filled.

The Senate was organized at 12 o'clock, by the election of Hon. Wm. T. Price as President pro tem.. Charles E. Bross, as Chief Clerk, and Cham. Ingersoll, of Beloit, as Sergeant-at-Arms. The second annual message of Governor Smith will be delivered to the Legislature in joint Convention, on Thursday afternoon. It will appear in full in the Gazette on the day of its delivery.

MATT CARPENTER AND HIS FINANCIAL RECORD.

Last week we published an editorial on ex-Senator Carpenter's financial record in Congress, when we clearly showed that he voted for resumption and against all amendments to the act which tended to impair its efficacy. An attack on Mr. Carpenter was made by Hon. George W. Allen, of Milwaukee, an extreme goldite, whose financial opinions are altogether impracticable, and who has an eye on a seat in the Senate. Allen undertook to show that Carpenter's financial record was a dangerous one, that by his wavering views on finance he had forfeited the confidence of the Republicans, and was not entitled to the support of the Republican party. Mr. Carpenter made an answer to Allen's charges, when the latter replied in a still longer article to the Evening Wisconsin, attempting to support his charges from the Congressional Record. Carpenter put in a rejoinder, which was published in the Wisconsin of Tuesday, and Matt's last words to George W. Allen show that a man who has not a ready pen, a keen intellect, and who can not sail on a clear sea, has no business to tackle him in a newspaper controversy. Like Saul among his brethren, "he stands head and shoulders above them all" when it comes to throwing hot shot.

One of Allen's charges was that Carpenter never voted for resumption during the whole time he was in the Senate. Carpenter took up the Record and showed that every word was false. Allen then backed down, and said the resumption act as it passed was such an abortion that "that staunch and unwavering honest money Democrat, Bayard of Delaware, was constrained to vote against it." Carpenter picks up the Congressional Record, and shows that Bayard was not present when the vote was taken, and therefore did not vote at all. Mr. Allen then makes this charge against Carpenter:

> After the reading of the veto message, Mr. Carpenter arose and broke the spell that hung over the Senate chamber by saying: "He that smiteth thee upon one cheek turn unto him the other also," which language was characterized by the press at the time as being, under the circumstances, the language of a mountebank rather than of a statesman.

As an answer to this, Mr. Carpenter says it is a whole-cloth falsehood ; that he was in the chair at the time ; that no debate followed the reading of the message ; that he did not utter a word about the message except to state from the chair that the bill was before the Senate for re-consideration ; and that 21 Record, part 4, page 3,271, will bear him out in the denial of this charge.

Mr. Allen again charges that Carpenter accepted a call from Greenbackers and Democrats to become their candidate, Carpenter declares this is entirely untrue and says: The call was not to become their candidate, but was signed by my neighbors and friends, staunch Republicans and others, asking me to be a candidate: but not a Democratic and Greenbackers candidate. They pledged themselves to do all they could to elect me; and they knew they could only do so by supporting Republican members for the Legislature. And this year we elected eight Republican Assemblymen, against two last year, showing that they kept their promise, not by electing Democrats and Greenbackers, but Republicans.

Another of Allen's charges was that Mr. Carpenter, previous to the passage of the resumption act, entertained inflation views, to which Matt answers:

> Previous to the passage of the resumption act, there had been differences of opinion among individual Republicans in Congress and out of Congress. But finally they harmonized their views as well as they could, passed the act of resumption, which has from that time to this stood as the Republican platform upon that subject. This is all there is of it.

Mr. Carpenter then deals with Mr. Allen in this wise: "A correspondent who cannot write a page without flying in the face of truth and falsifying the record ; who, when detected in one misstatement, flies to a dozen others ; and when his positive statements are denied, has to admit that he knows nothing personally about them, is entitled to no further consideration than a brief denial of his misstatements."

Mr. Edward Sanderson of Milwaukee, a prominent business man of that city and for many years a warm and intimate friend of Mr. Carpenter, writes to the Wisconsin also in regard to the ex-Senator's financial views in which he says: "Perhaps no man has had better facilities than I for knowing Mr. Carpenter's views, having, for a series of years, been personally intimate with him. During that time, in repeated private conversation, I never heard him express a sentiment on the subject which was not in full accord with my own views, and I think it will be seen that I am not tinctured with 'financial heresy.' I could not now support any man for Senator whom I did not know to be perfectly sound in this regard, and I do not entertain the shadow of a doubt that Mr. Carpenter is entirely reliable in his views of this important question."

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has published a carefully prepared statement showing the number of illicit distilleries captured, the number of stills seized, and the number of officers killed during the year while attempting to enforce the law, for the year 1878. The total number of stills seized is 1,258, of which 237 were located in Georgia, 410 in North Carolina. 110 in South Carolina, and 223 in Tennessee. The arrests made numbered 2,990—nearly the entire number being made in the Southern States. In Alabama there were 692 arrested ; in Georgia, 654 ; in Kentucky, 207 ; in North Carolina, 480 ; in Tennessee, 466 ; and in Virginia, 152. There were 13 officers killed or wounded by the Confederates, while the former were attempting to do their duty in enforcing the laws of the United States. Five of those were in Georgia ; 2 in Kentucky ; 1 in North Carolina ; 2 in South Carolina ; 6 in Tennessee ; and 2 in Virginia. This report shows under what difficulty the officers of the Government labor in the South in doing their duty.

In 1878 the county of Sheboygan shipped 108,735 boxes, or 5,827,476 pounds of cheese, an increase of 1,627,470 pounds. Nearly two millions of pounds were shipped directly to Liverpool, the balance went to New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, and the South. S. H. Conover, of Sheboygan, shipped over two million pounds. It is stated that Sheboygan county manufactures more cheese than any other county in the West.

The logging prospects in the lumber region of this State, are very good so far this winter. A dispatch to the Milwaukee Sentinel says that about 250 million feet will be cut on the Black River, and of this D. J. Spaulding, of Black River Falls, put in 25 millions ; Senator Price, 10 millions ; Hewett & Woods, of Neilsville, 20 millions ; and H. Kitchum, of New London, 30 millions.

Those who professed to be schooled in politics and can see through the Senatorial mist, say that the present organization of the Legislature is a strong indication that Mr. Keyes will not be the successful candidate. To say the least, the matter has a strange look about it.

The swearing train is very large this winter. One thousand persons were candidates for less than fifty positions about the Legislature. The great trouble with our State and National government, is there are not offices enough for those who want to fill them.

Governor Smith has issued a proclamation calling for a special election to fill the vacancy in the 23d Senatorial District, caused by the death of Charles H. Phillips. The election will take place on the 21st of the present month.

The members of the Assembly did a good thing by following the advice of the Gazette in electing Hon. D. M. Kelly, of Green Bay, Speaker of the Assembly. He is the best man in that body for the position.

Cham. Ingersoll, of Beloit, was made Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate without much opposition. Senator Richardson did a handsome thing for Cham., and a good thing for the Senate, in securing the position for him.

Senator Richardson has been made Chairman of the Senate Committee on Charities and Penal Institutions. An important Committee is fortunate in having a first class Chairman.

Death has stricken down more public men during the first week of 1879, than for the corresponding time in any previous year in the history of the country.

The Way to Find Employment.

A co-operative association of working people at Gunston, Virginia, furnishes all its members with constant employment, at fair wages, and boards them all in one large family or home, and thus reduces the cost of living about one-half. This enables each member to save a considerable share of their wages, which they are required to do. None of their number have been idle a day during the past nine months, unless from choice. They have a large farm and garden, and are employed raising food, making clothing, erecting buildings, making roads and fences, cutting fuel, and in housekeeping for themselves, producing with their own labor nearly all that is required to supply their wants and make them comfortable, with a considerable surplus, which they sell.

They are demonstrating in a practical way that all working people have to do to find employment is to organize and go to work, raising their own food, making their own clothing, and such other articles as they need to make themselves comfortable and happy. If they stand idle, they must suffer want, while if they are busy producing what they need, all their wants will be supplied.

This association is small as yet, but is growing rapidly, and promises to absorb all the more intelligent working people of the county, within a limited time.—National Republican, December. 26, 1878.

EMERALD GROVE.

—The Emerald Grove butcher was sent by Mr. Squire, the other day, to Mr. Dean's yard to kill a steer that belonged to Mr. Squire. The butcher was sure he knew the steer, and Mr. Squire's clerk helped him pick it out. After the butcher had slain his victim, and was doing up the hide, it was discovered that he had killed one of Mr. Dean's steers. He acknowledged himself beat again.

—There will be a donation visit at the parsonage of the First Congregational church, at Emerald Grove, on Friday, afternoon and evening, January 17, 1879, for the benefit of Rev. G. Rindell. All are cordially invited to attend.

RESUMPTION.

Secretary Sherman Reports to the Cabinet--Confidence in Business.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—All members of the Cabinet were present to-day except Postmaster-General Key. A large amount of routine business was transacted, and the condition of the finances of the country again discussed. All expressed gratification at the success so far attending the resumption of specie payments, and saw no reason why it should not be maintained successfully.

Secretary Sherman called attention to the fact that the Treasury now holds large amounts of gold, silver, and greenbacks, much more than there is any use for at present.

Reference was also made to reports from all parts of the country that resumption had given confidence to business, and that both at home and abroad business seems to be stimulated, and is being conducted with renewed activity.

OBITUARY.

Nathaniel T. Parkinson, of Lafayette County.

DARLINGTON, WIS., Jan. 7—Nathaniel T. Parkinson, a resident of this (Lafayette) county for over fifty years, died to-day at his residence a few miles from this city, after a lingering illness, aged 73 years. The deceased came to this State in 1827, was the first sheriff of Dane county under the territorial government, appointed by Governor Dodge. He served in the Sioux war under Governor Dodge and was at the battle of Bad Ax. He has been a member of State Conventions and filled various positions of public trust in this county. A wife and large family are left to mourn his death. Frank E. Parkinson, of Madison, Wisconsin, is a son of the deceased.

POLITICAL.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 7 A report probably sensational, was circulated in political circles this afternoon to the effect that a meeting was to be held in New York this evening of the interests represented by Wall street for the purpose of influencing the senatorial elections in Wisconsin and Illinois. The report has obtained considerable credence, and produces a good deal of talk and interest.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

The Unprecedented Sale and Demand for the New Four Per Cents.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In the first five working days of the new year Secretary Sherman sold $28,000,000 of the 4 per cent. bonds, and he made the announcement to that effect to the Cabinet to-day, as a fact unprecedented in the history of funding operations. Banks which have 6 per cent. bonds on deposit with the Treasury to secure circulation are withdrawing them, to sell before the premium drops off, and replacing them with 4 per cents. This exchange, which has just commenced with regard to the series of 1867, will cause a demand of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 worth of 4 per cents.

FEVER COMNISSION.

The Committee Investigating the Yellow Fever Epidemic Will Report a National Quarantine Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Senator Harris, Chairman of the Yellow Fever Committee, arrived from the South to-day, and says that the experts who are now investigating the epidemic will be here ready to report on the 15th. Mr. Harris says everybody in the South with whom the committee came in contact is urgent for the passage of a rigid national quarantine law, instead of depending on local quarantine.

PROF. NICODEMUS.

MADISON, Jan. 7--The funeral of Prof. Nicodemus, of the State University, will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock from St. Raphael's church. The remains will be interred at Forest Hill cemetery in this city. The Professor died heavily involved financially, and his wife and four young children are in greatly-reduced circumstances.

MADISON, Jan. 7.--Subsequent developments have apparently convinced the physicians who attended Prof. Nicodemus, whose death by poison was recorded yesterday, that he did not commit suicide. He had suffered from insomnia for several nights, and had been using laudanum as a soporific. An overdose proved fatal.

CROOKEDNESS.

Forger Arrested—The Rindskopf Judgment Settled.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 7.—A stranger named George L. Petrie, was arrested to-night for passing forged checks for small amounts on merchants.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—The I. O. O. F. held their public installation of officers on Thursday evening last, which was attended by a full hall. Rev. Jenk Ll. Jones, of Janesville, delivered the address of the evening. It was replete with fine points, and won golden opinions from all. After the installation exercises the ladies spread spacious tables around the hall, and loaded them with a banquet worthy of the occasion. The officers installed were as follows: Noble Grand, Fred Brandt ; Vice Grand, Eli S. Nye ; Secretary, A. King.

—Mr A P Bond has so far recovered from his attack of inflammatory rheumatism as to be about the house again.

—Stewart Hazard is convalescing again slowly.

—Mr Charles F Lane, the enterprising seed grower of Koshkonong, is out with his new catalogue for 1879, and is doing a large amount of advertising thus early in the season. Mr Lane sent about 1,000 circulars from the postoffice in this place last week most of which went into New York and Pennsylvania. Mr. Lane is receiving some fine orders for his seed from across the water.

—Miss Matie Vogel, of Madison, was in town some days last week, the guest of Miss Cora Holmes.

—Elder Grover, of Lima Center, is holding protracted meetings each evening at the United Brethren church west of here. Quite an interest is already awakened and seems to be increasing.

—The officers of the Du Lac Grange are to be publicly installed at their hall on Saturday evening January 11th. Good speakers will be in attendance. All are invited.

—Oats are bringing but 16 cents per bushel in this market.

—Mr. W. T. Morgan is filling his ice house with very fine ice over a foot thick from the lake. The ice harvesters have a fine show now, and the sleighing could not be better.

—The Foster House is being lathed and will be ready for plastering as soon as the weather softens a little.

—The Brieyer Comedy Company opened up at Morgan's hall on Friday evening, with "Rip Van Winkle," following it on Saturday evening with the "Hidden Hand," closing on Monday evening with the old but popular drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The attendance has been fair, considering the times, and the fact of its coming so close upon the heels of the holiday entertainments.

—Evening meetings are being held in connection with both the churches here a portion of the time each week.

—Elder Wardner goes to Dodge Center, Minnesota, on Wednesday or Thursday of this week, to review a series of Sabbath lectures lately delivered there by a local Sunday divine. He will be gone probably ten days.

—Miss Myrtie Larkin has entered upon her duties as assistant teacher in the upper department of the graded school in this village. She makes a very acceptable teacher in all respects.

—Clement Brothers are billed for Friday night next, at Morgan's hall. This has become a very popular and successful company and is deserving of liberal patronage.

AN IMPRESSIVE BODY.

How the National Law Makers Behave Themselves.

Washington Correspondence Philadelphia Times.

A letter from Washington to the Evening Post, of New York, describes the House of Representatives as a very impressive body. It was not necessary for the writer to say it was his first visit to the capitol. I should like to read a letter of his, written with the same frankness and honesty, after the close of this short session. I should want him to be present in the gallery during a row and to attend all the night sessions and closing ceremonies. I should also want him to keep his eye on certain members I should name. If he is attentive he will see members roaring drunk once in a while; he will see dozens of members squirting tobacco juice over carpets that cost $6 a yard; he will see scores of members smoking in the chamber during the sitting; he will see members stretched out on the sofas asleep, and he will hear them snore; he will see members with both feet on their desks, sitting on their backbone; he will see members munching apples while attending to the public business; he will see occasionally a member with his boot off, easing his corns, and he will see mubh else that will detract somewhat from his description of an impressive body. A few years ago a member from one of the Southern States, now happily out of public life, was in the habit during the sitting of the house of taking out his false teeth and wiping them on his coat sleeve and picking them with his finger nail. Another member was in the habit of combing his hair with a fine-tooth comb while listening to speeches. He was very tidy about it, and always spread a newspaper on his desk to prevent soiling it with the result of his labors. A member of the house from Kentucky at the close of last session went into the committee room of appropriations, taking off his boots and stockings, perched himself on the back of a chair and proceeded to wash his feet in the marble wash basin. One thing may be said of him, however, he was a member of the committee. Several other members were present whose stomachs were turned, and one member, Mr. Hewitt, looked at the Kentuckian for a moment, and between his teeth uttered the word "damnation" and bolted from the room. This member was defeated for re-election, and it is said that his habit of occasionally washing his feet was what defeated him. His constituents did not want their member to wash his feet and his face in the same basin. There are many strange people in Washington. One of them is a brother of a distinguished general in the army. He is not very old, but his hair is white, and his flowing whiskers are like snow. He has rooms in the Corcoran building, and is said to be very rich. He drives a handsome pair of horses and his rooms are furnished in the quaintest fashion. He has been a great traveler and has picked up the queerest odds and ends for his rooms He has the oldest furniture that can be procured, and he has a pencheant for the skins of wild animals. The floors of his rooms are covered with the skins of white bears, black bears, tigers, wolves, leopards, foxes, and other animals. This gentleman's peculiarity is in having a servant who never leaves sight of him. If he walks on the avenue Joe is somewhere behind him; if he goes to church Joe watches in the vestibule; if he goes to the theatre Joe will be found looking down upon him from the gallery; if he drives Joe is always at his side. Even the boys in the street are in the habit of watching for Joe whenever the master is in sight. What if Joe should die?

He Meant Well but Got a Flogging.

From the Davenport (Iowa) Gazette.

An elderly, good man in the First Ward, a prominent citizen, had an experience Friday night which showed the kindness of his heart, though he did get a beating for it. The affair has two sides—serious and humorous. It was about 9 o'clock when Mr. Citizen was disturbed by a racket at his front fence; he went out and found a horse plunging against the fence, while in the cutter was an up-town citizen too drunk to direct the horse aright. Our First Warder kindly concluded to take the rig and the man to the latter's home, and so jumped into the cutter and drove for up-town, taking second street. Just above Filmore street; he stopped at a grocery store to see if he couldn't get some body else to render the drunken man the service, as he didn't like the idea of footing it away back to his home so late at night. While he was arranging with a young man to perform the service, the drunken fellow gathered the reins up and drove off—and as he did so, another rig, with a young man and his sister in the cutter, drove up to the place. The young man jumped out and went into the grocery. The First Warder and his young man stepped out of the door, and the latter went up to the cutter to step into it. He suddenly turned to his elderly friend with. "What are you giving me? It's a woman in this cutter!" "A woman!" was the response, "I'll show you what kind of a woman it is—it's Blank; he's got upon the seat, and wrapped himself up. I say, here, getting sober, eh?" and he took hold of the party on the seat to give him a shake. Immediately a woman screamed, "Let me be! Brother, brother, come here!" The brother was opening the door when he heard the scream, and he dashed at the First Warden and gave him a most severe beating, knocking him right and left and—down never waiting for an explanation till after he was through. And then he didn't for he bounded into the cutter and drove off. While the matter was pretty serious for the victim, it had such a ludicrous side to it that he himself couldn't help laughing when he was in the store washing the blood off his face and clothing.

LIVER.
Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c.
Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.
My practice not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ST. NICHOLAS,
Scribner's Illustrated Magazine.
For Girls and Boys.

An Ideal Children's Magazine.

Messrs. SCRIBNER & Co, in 1873, began the publication of ST. NICHOLAS, an Illustrated Magazine for Girls and Boys, with Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge as editor. Five years have passed since the first number was issued, and the magazine has won the highest position. It has a monthly circulation of OVER 50,000 COPIES.

It is published simultaneously in London and New York, and the transatlantic recognition is almost as general and hearty as the American. Although the progress of the magazine has been a steady advance, it has not reached its editor's ideas of best, because her ideal continually outruns it, and the magazine as swiftly follows after. To-day ST. NICHOLAS stands

ALONE IN THE WORLD OF BOOKS.

The New York Tribune has said of it: "ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for its service wider resources in art and letters than any of its predecessors or contemporaries." The London Literary World says: "There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice production of Scribner's press."

Good Things for 1878-9.

The arrangements for literary and art contributions for the new volume—the sixth—are complete, drawing from already favorite sources, as well as from promising new ones. Mr. Frank R. Stockton's new serial story for boys,

"A JOLLY FELLOWSHIP,"

Will run through the twelve monthly parts,—beginning with the number for November, 1878, the first of the volume.—and will be illustrated by James E. Kelly. The story is one of travel and adventure in Florida and the Bahamas. For the girls, a continued tale,

"HALF A DOZEN HOUSEKEEPERS"

By Katharine D. Smith, with illustrations by Frederick Dielman, begins in the same number, and a fresh serial by Susan Coolidge, entitled "Eyebright," with plenty of pictures, will be commenced early in the volume. There will also be a continued fairy-tale called

"RUMPTY BUDGET'S TOWER."

Written by Julian Hawthorne, and illustrated by Alfred Fredericks. About the other familiar features of ST. NICHOLAS, the editor preserves a good-humored silence, content, perhaps, to let her five volumes already issued, prophesy concerning the sixth, in respect to short stories, pictures, poems, humor, instructive sketches, and the lure and lore of "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," the "Very Little Folks" department, and the "Letter-box," and "Riddle-box."

Terms, $3 00 a year; 25 cents a Number.

Subscriptions received by the Publisher of this Paper, and by all Booksellers and Postmasters. Persons wishing to subscribe direct with the publishers should write name, Post-office, County, and State, in full, and send with remittance in check, P. O. money order, or registered letter to SCRIBNER & CO., 743 Broadway, New York.

GENERAL M'CALLUM.

The Man Who Reinforced Grant in Chattanooga and Aided the March to the Sea.

New York Sun.

Major General Donald Craig McCallum, who died at his home in Brooklyn, on Friday night, had been ailing since Decoration Day, when he took a severe cold while riding with General Hancock and General Schofield. His disease terminated in cirrhosis of the liver and abdominal dropsy, and he suffered from hemorrhages. General McCallum was a Scotchman. His father had emigrated to this country, and settled down as a tailor in Rochester, New York. As young Donald did not like his father's trade, he started out in the world for himself, with his entire property, consisting of clothing, tied up in a handkerchief. He had, however, a definite determination to learn the carpenter's trade, and he worked his way to Lundy's Lane, where he settled and married Mary McNabb. On his return to Rochester with his wife and one child, he began business as a carpenter and went to work on the Erie Railway. He was gradually advanced in the department of bridge building until he invented an arch truss, the use of which on various roads brought him a revenue of $75,000 a year. In 1861 he was made General Superintendent of the Erie Railway, but he gave up that position to go into the service of the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad. On the breaking out of the War he was recommended by John Brough and Chauncey Hibbard to the War Department, and was placed in charge of the Department of United States Military Railroads, a bureau that was new alike to the army and to the railroad system. In this capacity he had charge of many important military movements.

When Grant was cornered near Chattanooga in 1863, it became necessary to send him some veteran troops in haste. President Lincoln determined to send the Eleventh and Twelfth Army Corps from the Army of the Potomac, but some old army officers estimated that it would take six weeks to forward the troops. Gen. McCallum was sent for, and he said he could transport the troops to Grant's headquarters in seven days. His confident assertion was pooh-poohed by some of the officers, but the President and Secretary Stanton intrusted him with the undertaking. He worked night and day, sending off train after train loaded with troops, and in the specified time he had the two army corps in Chattanooga in time to meet the emergency, and for this service he received the thanks of the Department. In the performance of this undertaking, Gen. McCallum was obliged to arrest Maj-Gen. Carl Schurz for interfering with his arrangements. Gen. McCallum constructed over 2,000 miles of railroad, and expended over $42,000,000 in his department. He very materially promoted the success of Sherman's march to the sea, and it is remarkable that Gen. Sherman, in his "Memoirs," has said nothing of the Department of Military Railroads, to which he owed so much.

At the close of the war the men employed on the United States Military Railroad service found an unexpected hospital fund on hand amounting to about $10,000. A committee was appointed to dispose of it, consisting of Major O. H. Stevens, Jacob Van Dyne, and John Wyman, who finally concluded to purchase a handsome diamond pin for $7,000. This was presented to General McCallum at a dinner given in Delmonico's. Subsequently James Fisk, Jr., persuaded General McCallum to sell the pin to him. That is the history of Jim Fisk's celebrated pin.

General McCallum was privately known to be something of a poet. Among his compositions was "The Water Mill," with the refrain.

The mill never grinds again with water that has passed.

A small volume of these poems was privately published for circulation among his friends in 1870. But while he was in business the General always said he did not wish it to be known that he wrote poetry, "lest he should be taken for a d——d fool."

Cramming for Berlin.

From the New York Graphic.

Tutor, Uncle Sam—"Now, boys, one thing is certain. No one can go unless he can speak German. Remember, the boy who speaks no German has no chance at all. What can you say, George William Curtis?"

George—Yah!"

U. S.—"Yah? Is that all? Would you say yah to everything when you got to Berlin?"

George—"Yah."

U. S.—"Step down. You can't go. Step up, Fenton. Would you say yah to every thing in Berlin, Reuben?"

Reuben—"Nein."

U. S.—"Nein? Nein what?"

Reuben—"Nein, sir."

U. S.—"And you'd settle all diplomacy by nein, would you?"

Reuben—"Nein."

U. S.—"Step down, Rube. You must travel past nein before you go to Berlin. Let's hear your German, Bob?"

Ingersoll—"Ich habe nict Got in Himmel! Ich——"

U. S.—"There, stop. Is it your mission to preach that in Berlin?"

Ingersoll—"Yah."

U. S.—"You won't do. You don't represent Church and State well enough for me. What can you say in Berlin, Boker?"

Boker—"Geben sie mir ein glass lager. geben sie mir zwei glass lager; geben sie mir drei glass lager; geben sie mir——"

U. S.—"And is this all your mission to Berlin?"

Boker—"Yah."

U. S.—"Get out. Let's hear you, Hartranft."

Hartranft—"Der unter gassen mit dem unterhm tengangen vas ich hollen haragensnickerswing envollen snucken rip bang wollenwangen——"

All the Rest—"Tain't fair. He cuts under us cos he's a Pennsylvania Dutchman!"

The Man Who Wrote "My Grandfather's Clock."

New York Correspondence Indianapolis Journal.

I met Henry C. Work the other day. What, reader! you don't know this celebrated Work? Well, yoou know his latest work, at least—"My Grandfather's Clock." Does it pervade Indianapolis as it does New York? Does that tune make your homes vocal and your streets profane, and does it trickle down the back stairs, and sigh through all the narrow lanes? Does everybody play it, or sing it, or hum it, or whistle it, or follow its pulsations with the devil's tattoo? You will be filled with grief, I know, when I tell you that Mr. Work is now in receipt of $100 a week from his publisher, C. M. Cady, for the copyright on that song of the "Early Time." Work is an ideal author,—an ideal poet, too,—pure in purse, fitful and capricious in his moods, handsome, and ranging from the depths of despair to the frenzy of strong enthusiasm. He is handsome, has black hair and beard, flashing eyes, and he writes, writes, writes all day, and always writes songs. He is a man of 40, and has a beautiful and brilliant daughter whom he adores, and he would sell his songs to the old rag-man to buy her a new bonnet any time.

"How many songs have you written?" I said to him as I found him tolling at his song-strewn table.

"O, a thousand or more," answered he; "and one of the worst of them all has made me famous,—in a small way." And he flung a cynical smile over his shoulder, as if he shared Carlyle's contempt for "the voice of the vox populi."

"Some of the best things I have ever written," said he, in the same mood, "have had a very limited sale, and a few songs on which I have spent the most time have never sold at all."

"What are your most widely-circulated songs?" I inquired.

"Well," said he, "let's see; there are 'Kingdom Coming and the Year of Jubilee,' 'Father, Dear Father, Come Home,' 'Marching Through Georgia,' 'Wake Nicodemus,' and now 'Grandfather's Clock.'"

"How do you like song-writing as a profession?" I ventured to ask him.

"I wouldn't recommend it to anybody alive," said he sadly; "the writer of songs doesn't generally feel much like singing."

The Hangman's Record.

New York Herald.

In the United States during the past year ninety-six murderers (all men) were hanged—an increase of thirteen over the record for the previous year. Of this number forty-one were white, fifty-two colored, two Indians, and one Chinaman. Five were hanged for outrage, four for wife murder, and one for filicide. There were seven double executions, four triple, and two quadruple. Friday retains the reputation as hangman's day, seventy executions having taken place on that day. The largest number in any one month was March, twenty-five executions having then occurred. Seventy per cent. of the hangings were in the Southern States, and nearly two-thirds of the victims were negroes. In Texas there were ten; Louisiana, nine; Alabama, eight; South Carolina, eight; North Carolina, eight; Pennsylvania, six, Missouri, five; Georgia, five; Tennessee, four; Arkansas, four; California, four; New York, three; Kentucky, Virginia, Montana, Delaware, Ohio, Mississippi and Maryland each two; Massachusetts, Arizona, Florida, New Hampshire, Indiana and Nevada, each one.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FOR 1879.

Established 1851.

The position of the foremost Republican newspaper in the United States will be sustained by THE NEW YORK TIMES by the same policy in virtue of which that position has been attained.

THE TIMES will continue to place fidelity to the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of THE TIMES will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit; the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms, and the preservation of equal rights to all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of THE TIMES.

THE TIMES will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate, and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increasing demands of our time.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social, and general discussion, THE TIMES will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties, and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

THE TIMES rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

THE WEEKLY TIMES, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. It will be the aim of its conductors to use every means, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

This important work, a collection of the best and brightest gems to be found in the whole field of English poetry, was begun in the fall of 1871, and contains 1245 poems by over 400 authors, English and American.

It has been the aim of the editor to present a comprehensive collection—an ENCYCLOPEDIA—of the poetry of the English language, one that will be a welcome companion at every FIRESIDE. Each poem has been given complete, and great care has been taken to follow the most authentic and approved editions of the respective authors. Nearly all the longer minor poems that have become classic will be found in this volume: among which may be mentioned Milton's L'Allegro, Il Penseroso, Comus, and Lycidas; Goldsmith's Deserted Village, and The Traveller; Coleridge's Christabel, and Rime of the Ancient Mariner; Pope's Rape of the Lock, Keats' Eve of St. Agnes, Campbell's O'Connor's Child, Shelley's Adonais, Mrs Southey's Young Gray Head, Macaulay's Horatius, Aytoun's Edinburgh after Flodden, Drake's Culprit Fay, Thackeray's Chronicle of the Drum, and Mrs Browning's Lady Geraldine's Courtship, while in the shorter poems, Shakespeare is represented by 31 selections, Burns by 23, Scott by 19, Wordsworth by 29, Herrick by 14, Hood by 18, Tennyson by 24, Moore by 24, Coleridge by 13, Byron by 16, Shelley by 18, Longfellow by 15, Whittier by 13, Mrs Browning by 14, Campbell by 13, Southey by 13 and others according to their respective merits.

Here will be found the most important poems by prominent authors, besides other poems of note and popularity, all carefully arranged under headings, according to the subjects, thus enabling the reader to see at once all the pieces of any particular character that he may desire.

The selection has been pronounced, by many of our most prominent literary men, one of the best and most complete ever made. The work is furnished with an alphabetical index of the names of the poems, an index of authors and also one of first lines, thus making the means of reference more thorough than in any other work of the kind. Explanatory and corroborative notes have been appended to the volume, and add greatly to its value.

The book makes a very handsome octavo of 1040 pages, printed from new type on fine paper, is illustrated by fourteen engravings on steel, and is beautifully bound. Both in contents and in manufacture this is one of the finest specimens of bookmaking ever produced in this country.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 4 degrees above zero, and a 2 o'clock this afternoon at 11 degrees above. One year ago to day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 22 and 34 degrees above.

The indications are, for the upper lake regions, warmer, southwest winds, increasing to brisk and possibly high, falling barometer, cloudy weather, with snow, followed over the upper lakes by colder, westerly winds and rising barometer.

SACK COMPANY'S ELECTION.

The Sack Company held their annual meeting and election last evening with the following results:

Foreman—L B Carle.
Assistant Foreman—C W Baker.
Secretary—E B Heimstreet.
Treasurer—W B Britton.
Steward—T T Croft.
Trustee—L B Carle.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

The County Board met this afternoon, and decided to investigate the matter of jury and witnesses fees as there were reports in circulation that money had been needlessly expended for these purposes. It was also decided not to change the location of the Poor House. The bounty for wolves was fixed at $10, except from March to November, when it shall be $5.

NO ESCAPE FOR THE WICKED.

A young Beloiter named Shaw, who has been confined in jail, and who had but a few days longer to serve, thought he might as well go at the same time as the outgoing Sheriff. While assisting to pack up the furniture he slipped out of the yard and made his way toward the polar regions. The new Sheriff overhauled him on the railroad track and brought him back to his quarters again to serve his time out.

THE SNELL CASE.

The examination of James Snell was continued before Justice Balch to-day. Shortly before noon Mrs. Joseph Heald concluded her testimony, she being the chief witness for the prosecution. She has been subjected to a very exhaustive and exhausting cross-examination which has lasted two days. The next witness called by the State was her husband, who is still on the stand. The case promises to occupy some days, as there are twenty-five witnesses who are to be examined for the defense. The public are still excluded, and the witnesses are not allowed to be present only when called upon to testify.

THE ART DRAMATIC.

The Shakesperian recitals at All Souls Church, by Prof. Emil Franklin, last evening, drew the intelligence of the city to that edifice. The impersonations of Mr. Franklin were marked by a rare knowledge of the "imperial minded bard," and proved him an excellent elocutionist and faithful interpreter of Shakespeare. Prof. Franklin—who is a Hungarian by birth, infuses a passionate feeling into the characters. He becomes deeply absorbed in his impersonations, and his delivery is that of internal force, fired by a very sensitive and nervous organism. His rendering of the "witch scene" from Macbeth caused us to almost feel the presence of the "wierd Sisters of Fate," while in the portraiture of crooked Richard he proved himself an admirable orator, and displayed the cruel traits of him of Gloster with great fidelity. His selection from Hamlet was also much admired. Prof. Van Cleve gave some very fine selections on the organ, and Walter Helms rendered a saxaphone solo admirably.

Prof. Franklin has been requested by His Honor the Governor, Chief Justice Ryan, and the leading literati of Madison to give a recital there. The Professor will, if his engagements permit, again visit this city at an early date. He goes from here to Madison, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, and possibly may return here after that. If he does he will have a much larger audience than last evening, as he made a very favorable impression.

A DOG-GONE STORY.

A stray dog took such a sudden and strong liking for Marshal Keating's son that he followed him about as though he had always been his master. After a week or so the Marshal concluded that as he had one dog he would dispose of the stranger, and so gave him to Prot. Samuels to train for the show. Yesterday a ady applied to the Marshal to help her rescue a pet dog, which she thought much of, and who had strayed from home. She had learned that Prof. Samuels had the dog, and she wanted to get it back, as it was a present to her, from a friend. The gallant officer went with the lady to Samuels, and the dog was identified. It proved to be the same which the Marshal had given Samuels. His curship was willingly turned over to its rightful owner, its education having been greatly increased by the Professor having taught it to do a number of very entertaining tricks. It isn't every stray dog that falls into such good hands, and improves his time thus in attending an educational institution.

MUSIC BY THE RED HUSSARS.

Next Friday evening the Red Hussar Band will give a choice concert at the Opera House. The Band will number about forty and will arrive to-morrow afternoon in their special car. The Band play a high order of music, and are greeted everywhere with enthusiasm. Several extraordinarily fine soloists will appear, and the programme arranged for Friday night is one which cannot but attract the music-lovers of the city. The press speak in the highest terms of the Band and they have drawn large audiences wherever they have appeared. The Detroit News speaks as follows:

The second orchestral concert of the Red Hussar band in Harmonie hall, last night, was largely attended. The performance of the overture to Wagner's Rienzi was simply magnificent. It excited thunders of applause, and an encore would have been demanded did not the audience realize the severity of the task. The "Devil's Dance," by Rubenstein, something new to Detroit, less mysterious and more taking than the Danse Macabre, and full of a very taking sort of diablerie, was received with warm approval. Schumann's Traumerei was performed by request, and this saddest of death songs was executed to perfection. Herr Thos. Hunig's violin solo, a cavatina by Raff, showed him to be a real artist, capable not alone of merely interpreting, but of entering into the thought of the composer. Two of the compositions of Herr Schreimer, leader of the band, proved him a disciple of the Wagnerian school.

A BAD TIP-OVER.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. William A. Lawrence and Mrs. O. H. Fethers were driving along south Main street when the horse became frightened at a passing milk wagon, and quickly overturned the cutter throwing both ladies out. Mrs. Fethers was thrown with much force agains a hitching post, and suffered a severe shock of the whole system which rendered her insensible for some time. Fortunately no bones were broken, and she is to-day rallying from the effects of the accident, and it is thought it will not leave any permanent ill-effects. Mrs. Lawrence was also thrown out with considerable force, but at the time thought she was not injured. To-day, however, she feels the effects of the fall and is suffering somewhat, but it is not thought that she has been seriously injured. The escape was a narrow one, and the many friends of both ladies will rejoice that it is as well with them as it is.

THE HORTICULTURISTS.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Janesville Horticultural Society will take place at the City Clerk's office to-morrow (Thursday) evening. The treasurer's report for the past year will be read. As there is considerable business to be transacted it is particularly requested that every member who has received notice will be present.

Lincoln County Bonds.

Wausau Wisconsin: Judge Parks was to have heard the argument in the matter of restraining Lincoln county from issuing bonds and collecting a tax to aid the extension of the Wisconsin Valley Railroad from Wausau to Jenny, the county seat on the 3d of this month at Stevens Point. It will be remembered that last fall the county voted aid to that road in bonds and money to the amount of $110,000, although only about five miles of the road was in the county. The county board put $50,000 in the present tax roll, the balance $60,000 to be paid in county bonds. Several of the heaviest tax payers, including H. W. Sage, McGraw and the Cornell University, through their attorney, W. F. Bailey, Esq., of this city, obtained a temporary injunction, restraining the county authorities from issuing bonds and collecting tax. The question of making the injunction perpetual, came before Judge Parks at Stevens Point yesterday, Mr. Bailey appearing for the plaintiff.

THE GAZETTE.

What it has been the Past and What it will do in the Future.

The Janesville Gazette is the oldest newspaper in Southern Wisconsin, and the Weekly is one of the largest papers in the West, and enjoys a popularity and a circulation not excelled by any journal in the State. For over thirty-four years it has done good service as a family newspaper and as a political journal. It has always been a pronounced defender of freedom, of churches, and of schools. While it has aimed to educate politically,—to advance the morals of our politics,—it has labored to exercise a wholesome influence in the homes of the people. It has endeavored to present the just side of all political questions, to maintain a fearless and independent attitude on all questions which concern public interest. It has also labored to harmonize the Republican party, especially in this county, to advocate an honest money, to show the evils of inflated and an ever varying irredeemable currency, and to prevent the return of State and wild-cat banks by supporting the present banking system which is the best the country ever saw. While thus attending to matters politically, it has not forgotten the material interests of the farmers and mechanics, nor the well being of the fireside. In publishing choice, fresh, and instructive miscellany, in giving the latest telegraphic news both domestic and foreign, the Weekly Gazette has no superior in Wisconsin or the Northwest. The reduction of the price to $1.50 a year, makes it by all odds the cheapest and the best family newspaper in the State, and has added very largely to its circulation.

The Daily Gazette, which has been established nearly twenty-three years, still maintains the position of one of the foremost Republican dailies in Wisconsin. As a local newspaper, it is not surpassed in the State, and its installment of news each day from all parts of the country, give it a commanding position among the daily newspapers of the Northwest, and hence makes it an excellent paper in which to advertise.

The Semi-Weekly Gazette has been published over eleven years. Each edition contains the cream of the news and miscellany which have appeared in the Daily and Weekly. It is only three dollars a year, and for that price is one of the cheapest and the best papers in the State.

All three editions of the Gazette are superior advertising mediums, as they reach more readers than all other county papers combined. The Weekly maintains a circulation in every part of the county, among the best families. The daily is read in more homes than any other paper in the city, and for that reason stands foremost as a medium for advertising. Those who want to inform the public regarding anything they have to sell will find the editions of the Gazette beyond comparison the best in the city or county.
